44th INTERNATIONAL SESSION OF THE EUROPEAN YOUTH PARLIAMENT

Name: Babs (Bairbre Ann)
Position: Very Cultural Chair
Age: 20

Describe the session in one (long) sentence without using the letters “a” and “e”!

L O T S O F F U N (see I wrote a long sentence)

What would be the most innovative use for Henning?

hmm... maybe you should ask a certain vice president we all know and love – she will be blushing like a pink turkey when she reads this!

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be? Imagine...

Name:

The Lord of Everlasting Babs...where time waits for me

Laws:

- Many international Treaties with Switzerland & Belgium regarding the constant provision of chocolate.
- Alarm clocks AND MEN KELLER wake-ups would just be outlawed.
- I would always be on time – everyone else would just be deemed very early

Geographical position: Somewhere cold and snowy – but movable if I felt like it... pehaps a big motorised island would work best.

Poltical system:

One where I am always right of course – though I would need someone to make all my decisions for me... ok so I'm not the most decisive person in the world but hey every dictator must have their weakness right?!

Name: Andy “Model Behaviour” Byrne
Position: Chair
Age: 19

Describe the session in one (long) sentence without using the letters “a” and “e”!

Tip-top, rockin', rollin', shimmyin' fun, but still giving hot loving.

A building block for peace / cobblestone on the path to... blah, blah...

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be? Imagine...

Eurovision-stonia!

A land where every day is Eurovision day! People wear luminous clothing with velco “rip-off” features. It would be situated on the Planet Cheesy in the distant galaxy of Poptopia. In Eurovision-stonia people speak in rhyme and intersperse their speech with nonsensical noises like “Sha-la-la-la” or “Doop Dee Doop”. Death awaits those who refuse to take their “happy pills”.

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be? Imagine...

My country would be flouting around the world, drawn by huge tankers. Peolpe could call us and ask where we would be in two weeks, and it would vary from the Caribbean, outside of Australia, or maybe west of Canada... . It would be at total anarchy with the only law saying:As long as you don ‘t do anything bad, treat everybody good; you can basically do what ever you want... . Any conflict would be sorted out by me, and my carefully selected council of national advisors, of course democracy rules within the board.

Check Sarah’s questionnaire for answer to that question.

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be? Imagine...

Ha, Ha! You should know that I already am one!

On the planet where I come from, I am the supreme ruler of all rulers of rulers or rulers. On my Peoples’ Democratic Planet chocolate desserts are not stretchable to greater lengths than 25cm; people do not damage their heads during teambuilding; chairs do not sing at the Euroconcert; hotel rooms have windows you can open and you can only sleep for two hours a day and still be fresh in the mornings. Other than that, it is very much like Tallinn of the past week.

Miso “ I am your new supreme ruler”

5th -Beatle-imitator on cruiseships

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be? Imagine...

I do have a territory name after me already, it's a small Indian village near Himalayas, so I'm considering taking over control in Ullika very soon after the session. In my Yogi-tea-drinking community there will be soon no laws, as the exclusively selected inhabitant living in paradise-like conditions will not need any.

Name: Helene Sild

Position: chair (Culture II)

I really like this recipe (© Elmo) of Henning l'Orange. Quite innovative, n'est-ce pas?

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be?

If we really want to go into this...I would most definitely reclaim back the dictatorship of Shani that was situated inside the borders of Burma but saw its demise in the 1930's. Constitution's most important law obviously is the one that orders everyone to wear only Converse All Star shoes, hi-tops (d'uh). Guys, solid colors, I don't want to see any bloody stripes, ok? Political system is an dictatorship spiced with oligarcy, with a touch of theocracy and its garnished with dillcracy. Leader, should I see my premature and most unfortunate assasination, would be Mišo, just because he knows how to get jiggy with it, yo.

Imagine... Leonardo DaVinci smoking a cig and having a drink with George W. Bush at Molly Malone's when Bettina walks in. Nyeh.

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be? Imagine...

A small cosy island in the pacific ocean with its own nuclear weapon arsenal for back up its viewpoints. People living on the island (excluding domestic staff i.e. general population) would be my dear friends as I can trust them and wouldn’t need to think about boring law making. Furthermore the political system would be of course despotism as enlightened autocrat is much better ruler than compromise making parliament... right?

Oh and my country would be really happy to host next free EYP-Intl session – whole government is 125% committed to the project.

Name: Triin “Stop asking me organisational questions” Tuulik

Position: organising journo

Age: 19

Describe the session in one (long) sentence without using the letters “a” and “e”!

Wild vision of kindly youth in rhythm of truly fun & intriguing politics.

What would be the most innovative use for Henning?

There’s no innovative use for Henning – he himself is quite an innovation in EYP already because never before has a session had so much German characteristics than this one.

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be?

My country were a kingdom where as far as the eye can see there would be land covered with forests and mountains with colourful meadows on their sides... All the citizens would be out-laws as freedom means responsibility for one’s actions. Name? I’d really like the citizens to call the country “The place where my home is”...

He is so great at what use he has now, that there is no need to find out extra uses for him.

If you were dictator of a country, what would the name, laws, geographical position and political system of that country be? Imagine...

I would declare myself the supreme ruler of the world and not recognise any other power besides my own. There would be few laws and it would have to look exactly as I feel like in every given day. The political system would be described as a democracy of one.
